Le petit café de Milo

Session 2 / Screen-free / About 25 minutes

J’ai… / Je voudrais…

New: lait, fromage. Review: pomme, banane, pain, eau and montre / donne.

Milo, the four familiar foods, milk and cheese (real, toy or drawn), two plates and a napkin. Use pretend cheese for the hat! Print the plan, then put screens away.

0-3 min Hello, familiar foods

Set out pomme, banane, pain and eau. Give a few familiar show/give instructions; let her direct Milo too.

You: Montre-moi la pomme. Donne-moi la banane.

Milo: Bonjour ! Donne-moi le pain !

3-6 min Two new things on the menu

Introduce milk and cheese separately. Show and name each, then place them beside familiar objects.

You: Voici du lait. Voici du fromage. Montre-moi le lait.

Milo: Donne-moi le fromage ! Merci !

6-10 min What I have, what I want

Use the familiar apple and banana. Give Milo the apple: touch it for “J’ai”. Reach towards the banana for “Je voudrais”. Then give her an object and swap roles.

You: Tu as quoi ? Tu voudrais quoi ?

Milo: J’ai une pomme. Je voudrais une banane.

10-17 min Our little café

Each has an object on a plate. Take turns describing what you have and asking for something different. Bring in milk and cheese when the familiar-food exchanges feel comfortable.

You: Qu’est-ce que tu as ? Tu voudrais quoi en plus ?

Milo: J’ai du pain. Je voudrais du fromage. […] Je voudrais du lait. J’ai une banane.

17-22 min The cheese hat

Tell the story below. Put pretend cheese on Milo’s head and a banana under the napkin. She may notice the cheese before the bear does.

You: Milo cherche son fromage…

Milo: J’ai du pain. Je voudrais du fromage. Où est mon fromage ?

22-25 min My snack and goodbye

Return to a real or pretend snack-time choice. End while it is still enjoyable, or stop sooner.

You: Tu as quoi ? Tu voudrais quoi ?

Milo: Voilà ! Merci ! À bientôt !

The cheese hat

A tiny story, with a surprise

Hide a banana under a napkin. Put pretend cheese on Milo’s head. Let her spot it before he does. Tell the story for fun, without stopping to quiz.

J’ai du pain. Je voudrais du fromage. Où est mon fromage ?

Give Milo bread. Put the pretend cheese on his head, where she can spot it before he does.

Sous la serviette ? Oh ! Une banane ! Ce n’est pas mon fromage.

Milo lifts a napkin and finds a banana. Play his puzzled reaction; let her enjoy knowing more than him.

Oh ! J’ai du fromage sur la tête ! Quel drôle de chapeau !

Make the bear discover his cheese hat. Pause for a laugh, not a test.

Du pain, du fromage… Voilà mon sandwich ! Miam !

Move the cheese from his head onto the bread. Make a pretend sandwich.

J’ai mon sandwich. Je voudrais du lait pour mon goûter.

Milo asks for a drink to go with the sandwich. Offer the real or pretend milk.

Merci ! J’ai du lait. Et plus de fromage sur la tête ! À bientôt !

Milo checks his head with relief and waves. No compulsory question at the end.

Help both phrases grow

Respond to a word or gesture first. Wait briefly, offer “J’ai…” or “Je voudrais…”, then one whole model if needed. Serve her anyway. Try the phrases separately before linking them.

Afterwards, note one exact example of each phrase: without help, after a starter, or after a model. A single word is not yet a full sentence, but it is useful communication.

Tomorrow: use both phrases at snack time for two minutes. Stop while it is fun. No eating, drinking or screen is required.
